

Interactive Bridge Online

Contributed by Administrator
Monday, 02 June 2008

Interactive bridge lessons with video tutorials prepare any new player to play Bridge online without having to suffer miles of learning journey. Video tutorials and interactive demos are great ways to learn to play Bridge online. There are many tutorials that do not require one to download or install any kind of software for this purpose. While learning to play Bridge online it would be wise to update to the latest flash versions on the computer. Many latest programs are those that perform slowly in old versions of flash.

When learning to play bridge online it is important to peep in to the top cards in each suit that one has so that one will be able to understand and describe the quality of the hand to their partner. Being able to identify the nature of the hand that one holds and being able to explain it correctly to the partner is a good start to play bridge online, it gives a lot of insight in to where we actually are. Bridge hands are considered in most areas with respect to suits. As always the Ace and the faces are the top ranked cards to play bridge online. The more number of same suits is available in the hands, the more better; the many number of same suits is equally important to play bridge online like having the high rank cards. Allotting points is a very aspect to play bridge online, before making a bet it is important to evaluate the points that can be given to each card with respect to arriving at the total point value of the hand. The player that makes the first bid when at play is called the "opener" bridge games. The partner of the opener is called the responder in bridge games. The responder needs a minimum of 6 points to make a bid and the opener will have to hold at least 13 points to open up a bid. However, on combining the points of both the opener and the responder the value should be at least 26 points, anything less than that is hopeless to play bridge online. There are many games that should not be bid and one should identify when to bid and when not to bid. Overcalling is dangerous in bridge games too. Do not call high for lousy suits. Like any other game, it takes some systematic approach to practice the betting system in bridge.