You can play bridge online and as most think it is not very difficult to learn to play bridge online once they learn the rules of the game. Primarily bridge is a game that can be played by four players and not more. The bridge games are always played with partnerships where the player seated in the north teams with the player seated to the south. Similarly the player seated to the east teams with the player seated in the west. The north south team plays against the east west team. As always, a full deck of 52 cards is used for play, necessarily without any jokers. Every player is dealt with 13 cards each to start with.

Of the two partners one player is the declarer and one player is a dummy. There is an auction round. The player that is in the left of the declarer will play the card that is face up in the table. The dummy exposes all the cards to the declarer and plays per the declarer's idea. The declarer decides how to play his cards and also he decides on how to play the dummy hands.

Before you play bridge online you need to know that this game requires lot of strategic decision. With little attempt, this difficult to master game can be eventually understood. This is considered to be one of the complicated card games, but in reality like any card game, this game can also be mastered with practice.

When you play bridge online you need not have a paper to note down your scores. The system keeps track of your scores. If you should play bridge online properly you need to understand how the tricks in this game are won. The trick is the true play in this game. The trick when you play bridge online comes after the bid. If you do not understand the trick you will not understand the reason for which you will have to bet.

When all the bidding is done when you play bridge online the player that is winning the bid will have to place their card down. Now, the declarer will play any card that they prefer. The other players are not allowed to play the suits other than what the declarer leader has decided to play. If the declarer puts down Ace hearts, all the players will have to play only hearts, at the end the player with high rank wins.
