There are many variations in bridge when you play bridge online but the rubber bridge is the most basic kind of the variants that you can play. Some other variations that you can consider to play bridge online are Chicago bridge, contract bridge, duplicate bridge four deal bridge etcetera. The rubber bridge game is played between a team of two players. The Chicago bridge is one of the predictable kind of the variations of play bridge online and it is also known as the four deal bridge. Duplicate bridge is a variant of play bridge online where you will require 8 players to play the game.

Though there is lot of variations to consider when you play bridge online for all the variants the final motive will be to win the many number of tricks or rounds are possible.

The bridge game is a lot about better and it is less about card plays. For every bridge game there is an auction that is held in the table. Every player is supposed to make a bid. The bid when you play bridge online refers to announcing the number of tricks you are targeting for. You have to count the point values of cards before you announce your bet.

All the announcements are supposed to be tricks to win about 6. The player in a team declares a trump. The trump should be a high ranking suit if there is no high ranking suit it means there is no trump. The player will have to either increase the bid or they should pass the announcement, which means they are refraining from making the bet. The competition in this game is by the opponent team to prevent the declared and the partner from completing the contract play.

The prevention of the contract fulfillment when you play bridge online is done by a total of 13 tricks that is usually started by the player that is left to the declarer. Every player should follow the suit (the highest suit card) or they should follow the highest trump card. After all the tricks are announced, then the points of each team member are added to make the total points for the team. The scoring is done based on whether the contract was made or based on how much of it was accomplished. If there was a double bid or high ranking cards then extra points are given. The game stops when a team reaches 100 points!
